Request for Information (Level 1 Encounter)-

An officer has an objective credible reason, not necessarily indicitive of criminality, to approach a citizen. The encounter does not have to be founded upon any indication or belief of criminal behavior; it must be very limited in scope, while supported with an objective, credible reason. No seizure of a person is allowed at this level.

Common Law Right of Inquiry (Level 2 Encounter) -

An officer who has 'founded suspicion' that criminal activity is afoot, may approach a person, and among other things, seek consent to search. Consent must be voluntarily given. An officer must at least be at this level to ask for consent to search anyone or anything.

Founded Suspicion-

Founded suspicion that criminal activity is afoot arises when there is some present indication of criminality based on observable conduct or reliable hearsay information (i.e.-an officer has sufficient information to begin to suspect a person of criminal conduct).

Terry Stop (Level 3 Encounter)-

An officer who has an individualized reasonable suspicion to believe that a person or persons have committed, are committing, or are about to commit a Penal Law misdemeanor or felony, may stop and detain that person or persons. An officer must have a particularized and objective basis supported by specific articulable facts, for suspecting the person stopped of criminal conduct.

Reasonable Suspicion-

Reasonable suspicion exists when the information known to an officer would make an ordinarily prudent and cautious person under the circumstances believe that a felony or Penal Law misdemeanor has been, is being, or is about to be committed.
